Paris High School held its tenth annual Science Fair and open house at the gymnasium on Saturday.

Tappan D. Blake died at his home in South Paris Wednesday. He was 96 years old and the oldest resident of South Paris.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGERS OFFICE

Plans have recently been carried out to build a stock and supply room at the Town Garage. The carpenter work has been done by a group of Gould Academy boys under the direction of Roland Glines. As they donated their time on the project I do wish to extend my thanks to them for their work. A number of bins and shelves have been installed so that spare parts and materials used for the maintenance of the equipment may be kept in one room, segregated from the rest of the work area. Individual responsibility for the supplies and parts can be more readily established when they are stored in a separate room that is kept locked.

On March 14th the following roads were posted against heavy trucking, the load and vehicle not to exceed six tons:

North West Bethel Road, from Route 2 to Gilead line; West Bethel Flat Road, from Route 2 to intersection of Grover Hill road; the Grover Hill Road from the four corners at the intersection with the Flat Road through to Mill Hill; Chandler Hill Road from Route 26 to end of plowed portion.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

Winter Lingers

With the exception of three days the past two weeks have seen a steady shrinkage of the heavy snow blanket. A snowfall beginning Friday evening brought an estimated 20 inches before it slowed down Sunday. The snow was heavy and sticky, and with some less used roads already softened, plowing was difficult. The last three mornings have been ideal for March, frosty and clear with hot sunshine mostly through the day. This Thursday's prediction of more snow is not pleasing and the possibility of high water will continue for a while.

FIRST NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK MARCH 16-22

National Library Week has been organized by the National Book Committee, a non-profit citizens' organization devoted to the wider and wiser use of books.

Why have a National Library Week? Because the habit of reading is not keeping pace with increased education, leisure time or high, disposable income Because 60 percent of American adults did not read a book, other than the Bible, during 1954. Because half of the adults in this country live within a mile of a public library but only one fifth of them visit it. Because new standards of public library service have just been issued by the American Library Association; they need community attention and acceptance. Because recruiting trained personnel is a major problem for all libraries; greater effort are needed to attract young people to the profession The shortage is handicapping library expansion. Because soaring enrollments mean that school and college library facilities must be expanded

This first nation-wide campaign on behalf of reading and libraries has drawn enthusiastic response from the highest levels of leadership in business, education, government and the arts It has won the support of thinking people all over America who are concerned with the values of reading for our society.

The program has the full cooperation of the American Library Association It has received the endorsement of the National Education Association. Many national groups, including the Junior Chambers of Commerce and the General Federation of Women's Clubs, are officially coordinating their Spring activities with Library Week.

How can you participate? Parents can take the family to Library Week events, browse with the children in libraries and bookstores; check local school and public library facilities and work to better them; support local library budget drives; foster home activities and family reading hours.

Everybody can take time out for reading — and rediscover the delights and challenge of the written word.

Music Group to Present Concert Next Month

At the last regular meeting of the Music Appreciation Group plans were completed for a public concert to be held at the Wm. Bingham Gymnasium on Thursday evening, April 10.

The artist for the evening will be Mr. Richard S. Gilley, an accomplished tenor, who comes to Bethel highly recommended by the New England Conservatory of Music. Walter Marcuse will be accompanist.

Mr. Gilley's professional experience includes concerts in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. In Boston he has appeared as soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Harvard-Radcliff choral societies, and at the Creative Arts Festival in Waltham (Brandeis University). He is soloist at First Church in Boston, and regular recitalist at the Gardner Museum Concerts, and has given several solo recitals in Boston's Jordan Hall.

Mr. Gilley's vast repertoire includes everything from opera to show tunes, and even boogie woogie. The evening promises to be interesting and entertaining to everyone, and it is hoped that the town of Bethel will support this venture by its large attendance at the concert.

RUMFORD COM. CONCERT MEMBERSHIP DRIVE ON

The annual membership drive of the Rumford Community Concerts Association was launched this week as all division leaders and their workers met for a kick-off meeting on Monday evening, Mar. 17, at St. Barnabas Parish Hall at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Richard Waldron has been appointed by the Association President, Austin Tifft, to handle renewals and new memberships in Bethel. Tickets for the Rumford Community Concerts will be sold only during the campaign week of March 17-22. At the close of the week memberships are closed and no individual tickets to concerts are then sold.

The cost of membership will remain the same as always although all the surrounding communities have raised the price A membership entitles the holder not only to admission to all concerts in Rumford but also to concerts anywhere in New England as long as they are under the same auspices as the local concerts, namely, Community Concerts, Inc.

All those in the Bethel area who wish to become members of the Rumford Community Concerts Association, or to renew their present membership, are urged to contact Mrs. Waldron before Saturday, March 22. New members will be admitted to the final concert of the current series, which will be presented by Edwin Steffe, baritone, in Rumford on March 25

GOULD SENIOR PLAY REHEARSALS UNDERWAY

"Holiday for Lovers," a five-scene, two-act comedy by Ronald Alexander, whose "Time Out for Ginger" made such a hit with Bethel audiences a couple of years ago, will be presented by the Gould Senior class under Mr. Thompson's direction on Friday, April 25.

The story has to do with the adventures and mis-adventures of a mid-western family who journey abroad to visit their daughter, who has been studying music in Paris for three years. A bit naive when it comes to the language and customs of France, Spain and Italy, they blunder into some farcical situations, including the witnessing of a bull fight with unforeseen results as to Dad's reactions. As with all good comedies, everything is straightened out by final curtain time.

The cast includes Al Ordway and Jane Coffin as the parents, Sara Ault and Dawne Christie as the two daughters, Connie Chase and James Hill as a raucous, know-it-all couple from the parents' home town, Jon Daye as a young American studying painting in Paris, William Taillon as a distinguished French pianist, and Sue Merrill as the Frenchiest of French maids.

Musical numbers are being selected by Mr. Marcuse to add to the evening's entertainment. A general admission charge for tickets will be the policy, without reserved seats.

P. T. A. MET TUESDAY

The seventh meeting of the Bethel P. T. A. was held Tuesday night at the Crescent Park School.

President Edith Eypper would like to have any P.T.A. members attend a Mental Health Workshop on Saturday May 3 at Augusta. Also a Farm and Home Week day consisting of a joint meeting with the P.T.A. Thursday on April 3 at 9 a. m. This discussion is on the Sinclair Act. This meeting is held at Bangor.

Dana Douglass reported on the proceeds from the basketball game. There is $723 75 profit to date. The cold drink expense and popcorn expense to be paid out of this. Special thanks were given to Norma Jodrey for the use of her popcorn machine

Rita Davis has written for the Portland Little Theatre on May 23.

A brief discussion was held on room mothers. These are appointed by the teachers

This is National Book Week The Bethel Library would be happy to have suggestions from teachers as to what books they would like to have bought.

East Bethel won the attendance banner. After the meeting a panel of eighth graders held a question and answer forum on "what teenagers are thinking" This was very entertaining

The second grade mothers served refreshments

views from other editors

From the Vista Press, Vista California: Accidentally came across a newspaper from deep in the Ozarks, which carried an interesting cross section of the type of lives these people live.

The publication is from a county seat and is almost entirely filled with personal items, some of which are worth repeating, others demonstrate the simplicity to which these citizens are accustomed. One for instance tells about Mr. and Mrs. Jones showing up in town, she shopping while he sold a calf at the stock auction. Another tells about a woman who dropped her birthday pennies in the box at church. One country correspondent wrote: "Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Knox were over from Otsken county last Saturday to shop in the Soccer capital of the world." We couldn't help but wonder if the word "soccer" was correctly spelled.

The advertising was highly interesting, and almost made us want to move to that country: Steaks, lb. 59c; apple cider, gallon 49c; hard cider is not quoted —caliber was white mule); all brands of coffee sell for 35c per pound; (guess these people don't have to pay for the Cadillacs the California food brokers drive); Regular size bottles—same brand—go at 2 for 5 bottles; a week end special; fresh ground beef was quoted at 3 pounds for 89c, and; the item that made the greatest impression insofar as price is concerned was Coca Cola. 12 bottles 39c. Beat that one if you can.

Side pork, salt meat and fat back were advertised. Never saw fat back advertised in this good old state, but it must be delicious—most of the grocery ads carried it.

In the classified this little gem appears: "Secretary, able to take shorthand and a good typist." The question immediately arose—"Where to?" . . . Another reads in part: "Well built electric concrete porch" had the nice house been designated and a few commas used the adv. might have read: "4-rooms, well built, electric, concert porch."

Real estate prices are quite low. 160 acres $6850 complete with house, barns, springs and fences; 102 acres with many facilities including home, barns, meadows grass, fenced with daily mail, only $4750, with low down payment and long time loan with real trees for shade.

SPRING

FROM OUR FILES

10 YEARS AGO

The Central Maine Power Co. purchased the Union Water Power Co. of Lewiston for $650,000. The Union Water Co. was organized in 1873 and controlled the water storage on the Androscoggin.

The Androscoggin River storage basins were very low. It was reported that the melting of snow in the region could only half fill them.

Death: Hannibal H. Chapman.

20 YEARS AGO

The Bethel Village Corporation accepted the gift of the skating rink site on Paradise St., from the Lions Club.

Under a WPA project improvement was made on the Northwest Bethel road. Curves were straightened and hollows filled.

The Nelmey store was renovated. The partition was removed between the original store and the former A & P store.

Death: Mrs. Ella Coffin Hastings.

33 YEARS AGO

Albert Silver was appointed carrier on R. F. D. 4.

M. A. Nalmey bought the Bisbee grain mill property on Main St.

Bethel Inn employees enjoyed a picnic at Broadview Camp on Peter Grover Hill. Most of them enjoyed a straw ride to the camp. Some went on sills.

Your Washington Report

Congressman
ROBERT HALE

The Administrative Acts

It is gratifying that President Eisenhower is now taking some of the positive steps which I have been asking to fight the current recession, especially in depressed areas.

The President's direction to the military departments to expand more defense contracts to depressed areas, and his recommendation to Congress for an extension of extended unemployment benefits are of special interest to the First Maine District.

A White House official also has advised me that representatives of the Defense Department and Small Business Administration will participate in a procurement conference to be planned in the Biddeford-Saco area.

In addition, the President's extension of a 40 per cent ad valorem customs tariff on watch movements should help to save jobs in that important industry.

New Legislation

I have joined with four additional bills to aid Maine and the country this week (bringing more defense contracts to depressed areas by allowing a plus differential wherever unemployment is over 12 per cent of the labor force; Biddeford-Saco-Sanford would qualify for a differential of up to 10 per cent on such contracts.

Another of my bills would help areas of chronic and persistent unemployment to take effective steps to plan and finance their economic development. This is a comprehensive approach to the problem of depressed areas.

SEN. PAYNE REPORTS

Agricultural Price Supports

Last Thursday the Senate passed a resolution freezing agricultural price supports at their present levels to prevent Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson from reducing supports. I voted against this resolution which would tie the Secretary's hands, impose a heavy burden on American taxpayers, and inflict excessive government control on our farmers. If the House passes this resolution, it is hoped the President will veto it.

Pretty generally I have supported Secretary Benson's farm program. Two aspects of it have, however, caused me some concern. First, his program of exporting raw cotton to overseas textile manufacturers at world market prices which are lower than our own mills can buy. This to me is obviously unfair to our domestic industry. Second, I have serious reservations about his proposal to reduce dairy price supports without making a similar reduction in feed grain price supports. Unless the two are tied together Northeastern dairy farmers are going to be placed in an uncomfortable price squeeze.

Secretary Benson is an able and hard-working public official. All too often he is unjustly berated for simply administering farm legislation enacted by Congress. It's a popular sport in some quarters these days to shoot at Mr. Benson. I, for one, however want to give him a pat on the back for doing the best he can under harmful farm programs passed by Congress—of which last Thursday's resolution is a good example.

A Tax Cut

The Senate last week voted down 71-17 an attempt to add a major tax cut to a minor tax bill in the Senate Floor. There had been no hearings on the proposal and no time to study it in any depth. It is a poor procedure in my opinion to try to legislate on the Senate Floor on an amendment involving billions of dollars after only four hours of discussion and no opportunity to go into the many facets of the problem to arrive at a sound decision.

This does not mean that I am opposed to a tax cut. Earlier in the week in speaking before the AFL-CIO Economic Conference I said that if the current economic slump continues and it becomes necessary personal and corporate income taxes and excise taxes can be reduced to increase purchasing power and stimulate economic growth. Personally I would favor a tax cut over an extensive new public works program at this time because I believe a tax cut would have a quicker impact on the economy.

West Paris High School News

First-year typing students who have qualified this month for their 30-word pins are Larry Baker, Richard Kangas, and Signe Maki. To earn such an award one must type for a period of 10 minutes without more than 5 errors and must attain a speed of between 30 and 40 words per minute. Junior Order of Artistic Typists certificates have been earned by the following first-year typing students: Glendon Hadley, Larry Baker, Signe Maki, Perley Robinson, Alice Young, Douglas Perham, Lorelei Waisanen, and Richard Kangas.

Monday evening, March 10, the finals of prize speaking were held at the West Paris Gymnasium. It was a very close contest. The winners were as follows: Humorous, Joanne Hawkins; Dramatics, Mary Ann Perham, and Oration, Douglas Perham. Douglas Perham, Mary Ann Perham and Joanne Hawkins were first place winners in the Small School League Speech Tournament held at Buckfield, Friday night. The trophies were awarded on a team basis.

The girls' basketball team and the boys' basketball team both had the annual basketball foul shooting contest. All the players in both teams went to the gym to see who qualified to journey to Portland. Of the girls, Elaine Penley made the best throws by sinking 29 out of 50 baskets. She traveled to Portland with her retriever, Sharon Goodwin on Saturday, March 8, where she did a very good job.

Duane Hayes was best shooter for the boys by throwing it 46 out of 50. He also traveled to Portland with Dick Hayes as retriever. There he made a fine display by swishing 44 out of 50 into the basket.

Highway Safety Depends on You

"Think for two—the other driver and you—if you want to stay safe in traffic!" That was the advice given to motorists today by our Maine Highway Safety Committee. The Committee spoke in behalf of the Defensive Driving program which it is emphasizing this month.

"Too many drivers think they are doing all that is necessary if they can handle a car pretty well and if they always obey traffic laws," the safety group continued. "However, in today's traffic, there is more to driving than that."

The State Committee pointed out that, no matter how skilled a driver may be or how carefully he obeys traffic laws, he can become involved in an accident through the error of a pedestrian or another driver.

"You've got to be on the lookout for that other fellow all the time—sometimes you've got to practically read his mind," they added. "Alertness is a big factor in safe driving. Being constantly aware of conditions around him, the driver can anticipate the actions of other drivers and pedestrians and can plan his own course accordingly."

Pointing out that alertness often reveals clues to the action of others, the Committee mentioned a case in point—"puffs of exhaust coming from a parked car, or the front wheels turned outward, indicates that the driver of the parked car may pull out into the traffic stream at any moment."

In conclusion, the safety committee said:

"Peeping on the lookout for danger and being willing to give the other fellow a break, even if he pulls a boner, can often save your own neck. Besides that, defensive driving will do much to help everybody else using the road. If each one of us will be more than willing to help the other fellow, we shall all discover that driving a car can be a truly pleasant experience."

NEW BOOKS AT THE BETHEL LIBRARY

Adults:

"Maggie—Now," by Betty Smith who wrote "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," is a warm, generous story about a girl called Maggie—Now who grows up in Brooklyn and is one of the "givers." Inevitably she attracts those who need to be given to.—Ruth K. Carter.

Young People:

"The Secret of Turkey Foot Mountain," by Eda and Richard Grist. Mystery, ghosts, adventure, danger, humor, in a fast-moving story. Two fifteen-year-old, present day boys seeking treasure in Pennsylvania mountain wilds. Grades 7, 8, 9, high school.

"Snow Slopes," by Mary Wolfe Thompson. The forthright, inspiring story of a slightly crippled high school girl who finds herself as well as contentment in helping with her mother's guest house and working at a ski lodge. Mystery and romance in Vermont. Grades 7, 8, 9, high school.

Juniors:

"Exploring the Weather," by Roy Gallant. The fascinating, ever-vital story of weather, its formation and development from fogs to hurricanes, its old superstitions and modern fascinating methods — is here told in clear concise, authenticated text. Grades 4, 5, 6. Also references for high school.

"Who Lives In This House," by Genn O. Blough. An apparently uninhabited old house is actually home for squirrels, robins, bees, skunks, and other animal families. Grades 2, 3.

"The Lonely Doll," by Dave Wright. Edith was a lonely doll indeed until the wonderful day when she makes friends with two little bears who share many adventures with her. Grades 1 and 2.

Ah, children, you are the bulwarks of freedom, the cement of society, the hope of our race!

SCHOOL NEWS

Grade 5—Mrs. Hastings

Yesterday we had a test in spelling the North Central States. There are four girls who got their states right. They were Ethel Kimball, Carol Kimball, Linda Lord and Brenda Sweatt. We are going to try to get more hundreds. We have a new girl. Her name is Renee Rosenburger. Friday Mrs. Hastings brought her record player. Mrs. Tibbetts let us borrow some records on bird songs. We had a Meadow Lark, Vesper Sparrow, Red Wing, Baltimore Oriole and others.—Editors, Billy Keoskie and Paul Vachon.

Grade 5—Mrs. Kneeland

We have formed a club in English. Last Friday we elected officers and the following were chosen: Robert A. Chapman was elected president, Gregory Glines vice-president, and Donna Daye secretary. Then a spelling match was held between our room and Mrs. Hastings'. We were the winners. We hold our meetings on Fridays during English period. Perhaps sometime we can have a musical program, or a hobby show or perhaps a play.

Bruce Taylor is at home with a cold also Hugh Chapman. We hope they will be back soon. Mrs. Tebbetts loaned us her "Bird Song" records also Voices of the Night the calls of 26 frogs and toads found in North America. Thank you, Mrs. Tibbetts we enjoyed them very much.—Beth Bean and Donna Daye.

Grade 6—Miss Varner

Miss O'Connor, the writing teacher, will be in our room on Wednesday. In arithmetic we are studying the area of squares and rectangles. The ones who went to the Globetrotters basketball game, sponsored by the P. T. A. enjoyed it very much.—Reporter, Trafton Westleigh.

Grade 7—Mrs. E. Lord

For the last week we have been doing Geometric Designs which have been very interesting. In science our subject has been the sea. Gloria Swan, Frances Bushman, Walter Grover and Darlene Morrill are in charge. We have a wonderful display started. People have brought in shells, pictures and many more. We get our first form of life from sea. We are tracing that to man. In social studies we are studying the Middle East.—Reporter, Darlene Morrill.

Grade 8

Miss O'Connor, the writing teacher came Tuesday. She gave Mrs. Larvey's room a gold seal and Mr. Heino's room a gold seal also. We will have a test next month. If we write 60 words in a minute we pass it. The sentences we write are: A quiet frog jumps when vexed by lazy ducks. The 8th grade will have a "Spring Social," this Friday night. We are trying to make money for our class trip. Those who went to the Globetrotter basketball game last Friday night enjoyed it.—Elizabeth Waldron and Patty McMillin.

MAGALLOWAY

Mrs. Bessie Harvey, Correspondent

Another foot of wet snow fell Friday night and Saturday. Snow plows went all night and day. Some of the yards and driveways were not cleared until Saturday night.

Jesse Flint is staying with Sam Brungot at his camp at Dartmouth College Grant. Mr. Brungot is fire-warden and caretaker there. Mr. Brungot is feeding oats to 18 deer. He buys the oats in 100 pound bags.

A. Donald Cameron spent the day Monday with his mother, Mrs. Mabel Cameron, while his wife, Mrs. Alice Cameron, and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Bennett went to Colebrook.

The State Election held at the Magalloway Town Hall on Monday, March 10, was very poorly attended. Only fifteen people voted. Archie Bennett and Mrs. Letana Eniman were the ballot clerks.

The annual Plantation meeting will be held on Saturday, March 22.

Miss Betty Linnell who has been home ill lately has returned to her studies at Leavitt Institute in Turner Maine.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gilman, Mrs. Nora Bennett, her daughter, Martha, and grandson, Peter, spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Mabel Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Harvey visited Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Balser at Milan, N. H., Sunday.

Archie Bennett is sick with a cold. Mrs. Bennett went to Rangeley Monday for medical treatment.

Miss Sharon Elizabeth Abbott and Pvt. Francis Joseph Lessard were married at Fort Dix, N. J., on Feb. 18. Mrs. Lessard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Abbott of Fairfield, and granddaughter of Mrs. Bessie Harvey of Magalloway. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lessard of Waterville.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks for the gift of money, other gifts and kindnesses shown to us before and for our trip.

To the people of Bethel and surrounding towns:

The management of the Bethel Theatre wishes to correct the rumor of it closing. The theatre will not close if its attendance improves in the next two months. Young teenagers, plus some adults, have pleaded to have the theatre remain open because there is no other theatre within miles of Bethel and they feel it would be a great loss to the community, as other communities have felt this loss after the theatres' closed without warning, never to open again. The theatre cannot survive without the adult attendance. The management of the Bethel Theatre would like to continue serving the people of this community as always.

The installing office will be Past Matron Madeleine Jacobs, West Paris. She will be assisted by her husband, P. P. Harry Jacobs as Worthy Patron.

MAN'S RECIPE

PHIL MAGOON'S DOUBLE BOILER BREAD PUDDING

I want to give you ladies a little free advice today. I like my plates and saucers warmed for warm foods. If you put hot food on a cold plate, it takes away the peak flavor to which one is entitled.

However, here is Haydn's practical and helpful hint. Don't put your good dinner plates on an electric burner to warm and then forget them. I was getting supper the other night while Blanche was finishing up some bookkeeping. I put the dinner plates on a burner. I set the heat to medium and planned to let them warm just two or three minutes. I picked up a newspaper and forgot them. Suddenly there was a loud bang. Know what? The lower plate split right across the middle. It was a very neat split, and I hay only two pieces to throw away. What's that? She said nothing—except something to the effect that it was good to own an open stock pattern if a man couldn't keep his mind on what he was doing.

This recipe is a favorite with many. You need one cup brown sugar, three slices buttered bread, two cups whole milk, three eggs, one half teaspoon vanilla, some raisins, a pinch of salt.

Put the cup of brown sugar in the top of the double boiler. Then put in the three slices of buttered bread cut into three quarter inch cubes. Sprinkle with raisins. Beat the eggs and add to the milk, salt and vanilla.

Pour this over the bread. Keep the water boiling in the lower part of the double boiler, and figure on about one hour for cooking. Don't stir! The brown sugar makes the sauce. When you spoon it out you will have a delicious sauce for the pudding. Haydn S. Pearson

Mrs. Ralph Kimball, Correspondent

Mr. and Mrs. Ralston Bennett and Norris of North Fryeburg were Saturday afternoon callers at Ralph Kimball's. Meredith Bennett of Gould Academy was a supper guest.

Mary Jo Head spent Friday night with Llona Kenlston.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bean and children of Lovell were Sunday callers on Mrs. Maud Kimball.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kimball were Sunday dinner guests at Ralph Kimball's. Other Sunday visitors were Mr. and Mrs. William Martin and three boys of Mechanic Falls.

Mrs. Willis Bean and Mrs. Marion Kimball were among those in Lewiston, Tuesday.

Lawrence Kimball and Warren Lapham were in Auburn-Lewiston Tuesday. They also took Urbain DeCormier to visit relatives awhile.

In observance of Girl Scout Week the local Girl Scouts and Brownies held a mother and daughter banquet Wednesday evening, March 12, with about 75 mothers and daughters attending. A program followed the banquet. Mrs. Alice Wardwell led the Intermediate group in the flag salute and singing. The Senior Scouts led by Mrs. Richard Mills, gave the Scout promise and laws. The Intermediate troop led by Mrs. Merle Warner gave a skit and led the group in group singing. Four new troop leaders were introduced: Mrs. Belva Burnham, Mrs. Annella Burnham, Mrs. Margaret Sicotte and Mrs. Julia Morgan. Awards were presented to members of the Senior Scouts, Intermediate and Brownies. A cake decorating contest was held with a prize given for the best decorated cake in each group. Judges were Mrs. Cleo Billings and Mrs. Florence York. Prizes were won by Gertrude Smith from the Seniors; Jane Wardwell from Mrs. Wardwell's troop; Laurie Carne from Mrs. Warner's troop and Rayann Burnham from the Brownies. The meeting closed by the Brownie Troop forming a friendship circle and singing the closing song.

UPTON

— Mrs. C. A. Judkins, Correa. —

Several from town attended a pre-nuptial shower given at Rumford one evening last week for Miss Alice Fuller. They were unable to attend the wedding reception on Saturday because of the heavy storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Judkins and family of Rumford Point were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick Judkins and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick Judkins were in Lewiston one day last week buying goods for their store.

Most of the high school students were home over the week end.

Maine Has Interesting People

Editor of the Oxford County Citizen:

Forty-one states of the Union in which we live are going after the tourist trade for this summer, but many who live in Maine often think that this is the only state which has any attractions for the summer vacationist. I have been in every state in the Union and have lived in several of them and I am convinced by years of experience that no state has a summer climate which is more agreeable than the summer climate of Maine. That is why I moved here from the hotter St. Louis, Missouri, area. I must admit, however, that there are many states that do have vacationlands even though they never advertise this fact on their automobile license plates or perhaps spend quite as much money as Maine does on well-illustrated literature.

People are always more interesting than places. The Maine Publicity Bureau has often missed the opportunity to play up the Maine "characters." We talk about Maine's green hills and quiet farms, her deep forest which are centuries old and pungent with the smell of pine; we tell about how all this gives peace to the tired mind and sleep to the weary eyes; we tell the world that Maine still has virgin forests which have never known the axe of man. These things have a big appeal which no one wishes to deny, but the publicity writers seldom play up stories about its people.

In addition to Maine's God-given forests, her rocky promontories which have withstood the stress of storm and wave for years unknown—in addition to her rivers dashing over stony beds and her inland lakes, calm and crystal clear, still as beautiful as they were when the Indians silently paddled their canoes,—in addition to all this, Maine has people—interesting people. People who are truly American. People who live in their own inimitable Maine way, free from self-imposed inhibitions and restrictions and in a great many respects Maine people are non-conformists. A born and bred Maine person usually takes a little different viewpoint from the so-called "outsider." He is usually American and because he is an individualist a little more interesting than most of the residents of other states. These are facts which need not be kept under a bushel if we wish to attract summer visitors here.

One thing, however, that Maine could do for itself to its everlasting benefit, would be to improve its road markings In some places there is room for 100% improvement. Tourists and even natives would appreciate it for it is as easy to lose your way almost anywhere in Maine as it is to slip on the ice on a winter day.

AND A LITTLE CHILD

By Gertrude Pierson

ALTHOUGH it rained all night, by noon the sun had warmed and dried the city. He could go to the park. Sam Bates thought, tucking his newspaper and checker board under his arm. He hoped Joe's rheumatism wouldn't keep him in. Sam felt like a rousing checker game.

As Sam closed his apartment door the one across the hall opened, the new tenant stepped out, smiling hesitantly she said "Mr. Bates, I hate to bother you — but could I ask a favor of you?"

"Of course Mrs Saunders," Sam answered politely.

"Could you take my daughter with you to the park? She has been ill and the sun would do wonders for her. Mrs Fenton [illegible] her while I'm at work, but can't ask her to take Alice out." She paused. "I thought since you went to the park every day —"

"Well —" Sam was hurt and knew it. "All right, I'll take her. Not much play by herself, I suppose."

"Oh yes, she'd be happy just to sit in the sunshine. Mr Bates and thank you so much." Turning she called, "Alice, Mr Bates is taking you to the park."

Mrs. Saunders carefully placed the small hand in Sam's. "Mr Bates will lead you, dear. Now do as he tells you and don't be any trouble, will you?"

"No, Mama." The child ventured without turning her head.

Consternation filled Sam. The poor little mite! Those big soft eyes were lighted. Sam wanted to pick her up and carry her, but his instructions hindered him. He knew that would be a mistake. So he [illegible] and keeping a firm grip on her hand led her to the park.

All day Sam stayed so far as possible from the shade of Washington and his favorite bench. He was to be kind to Lisa, a caution commands about "baby sitting at your age." He and Alice walked around getting acquainted then sat awhile, then walked some more.

After that it seemed taken for granted that Sam would take Alice with him to the park. And so it went until Saturday when Mrs Saunders was free to take Alice out herself.

Sam hurried to his bench and Joe. The a boy let out of school. He had all afternoon to fish, read his paper, play checkers and the games, and gab about the good old days.

Joe sat dozing in the sun when Sam came up. Sam shook him. "Hey you! What's the matter? All the fish dying like an old man?"

Joe jerked full awake, clicked his false teeth and blinked. "Who's an old man? Ain't but seventy to Gus's youngest a you. Where you been all week?"

Sam chortled. "Maybe I am in [illegible] city fish. It's been [illegible]. Joe, you see —"

"No, I don't see. What's the matter, can't you see? Trouble you to see? You see all right, don't even wear [illegible]. What you talking about?"

Sam told him about Alice. "I was in the [illegible] all week [illegible] her about everything. She asked how big everything was here, how wide and all that — but especially what color."

Sam sighed. "As I say, Joe, I never looked at things [illegible] before, an never really saw them. Never knew there were so many kinds of green in trees and grass, never knew flowers came in so many different kinds of form, that some things looked hard, some soft, some warm, some cool. No, Joe, I never learned to see color that week."

THE AMERICAN WAY

THE WELFARE STATE IN ACTION

by John T. Flynn

(EDITOR'S NOTE: John T. Flynn is a noted author, lecturer and radio commentator.)

This is an election year—a congressional election year. And, as usual in election years, the air is full of promises. Promises are what politicians live by—promises of all the wonderful things they will give to the people who elect them, if the people will just give the politicians enough tax money. But politicians running for office don't talk about the tax money—only the promises.

At the moment our Republican President is having a contest with our Democratic Congress to see which can make the biggest promises—of more social security, more unemployment insurance, more veterans' benefits, more old-age assistance, more aid to education, more public housing, more of this, that and the other thing. Lump all these together and you have what is known as the "welfare state." And our politicians are having a contest as to which ones can promise, and run better, an ever-bigger welfare state.

This might be a good time, therefore, to take a look at another welfare state which has been in full operation now for nearly a decade. The Socialists put a welfare state into operation in Great Britain nearly ten years ago. Of course, England has a so-called Conservative government now, but it has done nothing to disturb the welfare state begun by the Socialists. The Conservatives in England, like our "modern" Republicans here, try to out-socialize the Socialists in welfare-state promises.

The Socialists, of course, sold the welfare state to the people of England with the idea that it would give them "free" medical care, "free" pensions, "free" housing and so on. But it turned out that none of it was free. Governments have nothing to give. They can only take away—and then give back part of what they have taken. So heavy taxes had to be imposed on the people of England to pay for the various government "insurance" schemes. But the people were told they mustn't mind paying the taxes, because the government could provide "security"—from the cradle to the grave—so much better for them than they could for themselves. But now—ten years later—it turns out that even these heavy taxes are not enough to keep the welfare-state scheme going. As a result, Britain has to dip into general revenues—and today, nearly sixty cents of every dollar collected in taxes goes for this welfare-statism. This is why Britain is cutting down on her defense expenditures, and why she constantly has her hat out for more United States handouts.

Meanwhile, welfare-statism is turning the once proud and independent Englishman into a slothful, irresponsible ward of the government. Nearly all new housing in England is in the hands of the government. If an Englishman wants to better his living conditions, he must apply for a government house. Meantime, if he is self-respecting, he keeps his old house clean and in good repair. But a neighbor who lets his home go to rack and ruin gets first claim on a government house. The self-respecting Englishman soon decides it's smarter to be shiftless. He'll get a government house quicker that way—and let some other self-respecting Englishman help pay for it out of his general tax payments to the government.

An Englishman, through a sense of duty and integrity, takes care of his aged or ailing parents. A lazy neighbor turns his aged parents over to the government to take care of—with the taxes of the first Englishman. In other words, an English man with a sense of honor finds himself contributing not only to the support of his own parents but to the support of the parents of many other shiftless Englishmen. It isn't long before he decides that he, too, will get on the government gravy train.

It is this sort of thing which is turning what was once the greatest trading nation in the world into a third—or fourth-class power.

A young immigrant got a job making pistons in a British factory. He worked hard and made a lot of pistons. He was taking home more pay to his family than the other workers. They called him on the carpet and found him guilty of overwork! He was ordered to turn over his extra pay to the union sick fund. He refused—and got kicked out of the union—and out of his job. This explains why England is losing many of her markets to West Germany, which is operating under a free-enterprise system in which hard work and self-reliance are things to be proud of, while Britain's welfare state puts a premium on slothfulness and laziness.

Would it not be a good idea if we took a lesson from Britain's experience with welfare-statism—before it is too late?
